MUSIC INDUSTRY VETERAN CHRISTOPHER NAVARRO JOINS KING, HOLMES, PATERNO & SORIANO

King, Holmes, Paterno & Soriano is pleased to announce that Christopher R. Navarro has joined the firm's entertainment department, bringing over a decade of industry experience handling a wide array of recorded music, publishing, digital distribution, live performance, influencer marketing, branding, and endorsement transactions.

Navarro has worked with leading Latin music companies and artists, including Eslabon Armado, K Music (home to Luis R Conriquez and Tony Aguirre), DannyLux, Dimelo Flow, and OD Entertainment (label to Omar Courtz). He was most recently a partner in a boutique law firm, after having served as head of Business and Legal Affairs at Universal Music's division of Latin Entertainment.

"I'm humbled to be joining a firm with a reputation for excellence and dedication to its clients. I look forward to contributing my experience to further build on that legacy, while expanding my global practice and continuing to serve my clients with the resources of one of the preeminent entertainment firms in the country," said Navarro.

Howard King, managing partner of the firm, stated: "We are delighted to supplement our deep bench of entertainment attorneys, including our robust Latin music practice, with someone at the top of his game, with significant ties to the industry and a keen appreciation for artist protection."
