ENTERTAINMENT INDUSTRY VETERAN TOMMY FINKELSTEIN JOINS KING, HOLMES, PATERNO & SORIANO

King, Holmes, Paterno & Soriano is pleased to announce that Tommy Finkelstein has joined the firm's entertainment department, bringing over two decades of industry experience with a track record of negotiating and closing complex, high-value transactions across film, television, music touring and other forms of media.

Tommy most recently served as General Counsel and Head of Business Affairs at Independent Artist Group, where he counseled an impressive roster of clients such as Curtis "50 Cent" Jackson, Ghost, Mary J. Blige, Sir Gary Oldman, Delroy Lindo and Entangled Publishing. He advised executive leadership on strategic matters and oversaw the merger of Agency for the Performing Arts, with the music industry's top independent music agency, Artist Group International, to form IAG. Prior to IAG, Finkelstein held senior business and legal affairs positions at Warner Media and HBO—where he served as production counsel on acclaimed series including Game of Thrones, Boardwalk Empire, Silicon Valley, and The Wire—as well as at Walden Media and ABC Television. Finkelstein launched his legal career at the New York office of Willkie Farr & Gallagher.

Howard King, managing partner of the firm stated: "We are delighted to supplement our deep bench of entertainment attorneys with someone of Tommy's breadth of experience across the entertainment spectrum."

Tommy stated: "I'm honored to join the team at KHPS, whose culture of excellence, deep integrity and unwavering commitment to its clients operate at the highest level. I couldn't be more excited about the work ahead."
